Reference Number	2000.0163
Collection/Series Title	WOMEN'S LIBERATION SWITCHBOARD
Creator	Women's Liberation Switchboard
Creator's Activity/Occupation	Feminist collectives
Biography
The Women's Liberation Switchboard was founded in 1979 by women formerly responsible for the defunct Women's Liberation Centre telephone service. It provided information and a referral service for women seeking refuges and other support services. Volunteers to the Switchboard worked four- hourly shifts for twelve hours a day, seven days a week. In 1980 WLS received government funding on the condition that it added Women's Refuge Referral Service to its title. The WLS and WRRS then effectively ran two distinct services: the WRS had paid workers and the WLS was run by volunteers who gave information of women's liberation-related activities. In 1984 the two groups became officially autonomous. WLS closed down in 1992. This collection is No.17 of the Victorian Women's Liberation and Lesbian Feminist Archive

Title: War is the assertion of death over life; of the patriarchy over the female principle	Date: Undated	Item Number: 2000.0163.00476	Unit/Box: MD54/6
Description: War is the assertion of death over life; of the patriarchy over the female principle : the only world war is the war against women, war-time or peace-time, women know no peace Shows an image of a woman in white against a black background holding open her arms. Red aeroplanes form a 'v' shape and black shapes of soldiers are shown against a red background. At head of the poster is the text: 'War is the assertion of death over life; of the patriarchy over the female principle'; at foot of the poster is: 'The only world war is the war against women, war-time or peace-time, women know no peace ... in war, armies of men rape their female allies &? female enemies alike. At home, the usual rape of little girls &? women, by their absent husbands, sons, fathers, uncles, brothers &? countrymen, declines. Rape is a sexual act of war against women thst disregards time, place, nationality, class, age and relationship. War is the ultimate institutionalization of violence and hatred against nature'. Image and text is surrounded by a red and black border. Outside of this border running vertically, is the text: 'The worlds women unite to: oppose pro-war, nationalistic, patriotic nostalgia &? propaganda directed at women; mourn women raped in war; reclaim the night so women can walk without fear; support rape-crisis centres' and 'organized by women: oppose war; refuse to work in armament factories; learn self-defence &? self-help techniques; resist together; etc.'. Text is in white-on-black and black-on-white. Description: Reconciliation. Published by the Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation. Artwork by Sally Morgan. Text on poster: "This painting symbolises the reconciliation process. The people are facing one another, indicating interaction, dialogue, talking and listening. The small figures under their arms are children - the future. The central snake is symbolic of Aboriginal culture, spirituality and history. The people either side of the snake are our ancestors, who are watching over the process. We have to find a way of living together in this country, and that will only come when our hearts, minds and wills are set towards reconciliation. It will only come when thousands of stories have been spoken and listened to with understanding." -- Sally Morgan. 3 copies. Subjects: Council for Aboriginal Reconciliation (Australia) -- Posters; Art, Aboriginal Australian -- Posters; Reconciliation -- Australia -- Posters
