AND BUSINESS VOLUMES

Creator	Blake & Riggall
Creator's Activity/Occupatio	Lawyers
Creator's Historical Note
The origins of the firm can be traced back to the 1850s when John Ross and John Clarke were in partnership as attorneys, solicitors and proctors in Melbourne until Ross's retirement in 1857. In 1861 Edward Murphy acquired the practice and entered into partnership with Robert William Nutt in 1865. A new partnership was formed in 1870 between Nutt, Isaac Seddon and Arthur Blake until Nutt left Australia several years later. In 1874 Blake and William Riggall entered into partnership. While strong in general practice, the firm has been notable for representing the interests of Victorian graziers and businessmen, including the management of pastoral investments in Queensland and the Riverina.

Scope and Content of Collection/Series
The papers and volumes in this series are records that were kept by the predecessors of the legal firm known as Blake and Riggall, in particular the firms of R.W. Nutt and E.J. Murphy. The papers are a combination of personal and business papers. Among the personal papers of RW Nutt are files relating to a marriage settlement, properties, and wills and estates. The papers of EJ Murphy consist of a number of deeds that came into his possession after he took over the office, business and papers of the late John Clarke in 1862. Consult the online finding aid for a detailed list of all the papers in this series. The volumes mainly relate to the management of clients business, financial and accounting activities, particularly deed books managing legal documents relating to clients properties, rights or interests. Some of these record types have integrated alphabetical indexes in their front pages which can be used to locate relevant information within.

[19 sheets] Note: William Talbot, of Malahide station, Van Diemen's land died leaving Thomas George Gregson as executor. In 1851, Gregson was replaced by R W Nutt and Edward Samuel Pickard Bedford. The estate was left in trust for the sons of Williams brother James, afterwards Lord Talbot of Malahide, county Dublin, Ireland. One of these nephews, Samuel Neil Talbot was a certified lunatic and so the estate was held in the interests of the Hon. Richard Gilbert Talbot who for the most part resided in England. The Malahide Estate papers deal mainly with reports of the trustees to R G Talbot and to the Master in Chancery. A separate matter was the libel case brought by Gregson, the former manager of Malahide, against other parties, in which Nutt was asked to appear as a witness for the defendants.
