NOTE ON COLLECTION	Spanning almost a century and a half, the collection has great significance. It chronicles the history of All Saints Estate; the riverboat trade, early building construction and wine making in the Murray region. The material loosely falls into two different parts, the records pertaining to the ambitious partnership between George Smith and John Banks and those relating to G. S. Smith and Sons. Sadly the collection is fragmented and incomplete, many of the papers and ledgers were destroyed, lost or simply did not survive the ravages of exposure, neglect and time. The first part of the collection begins in 1858 and records Smith and Banks' varied business ventures. The surviving material in this period consists of a limited range of legal documents, journals, ledgers, cash books and papers documenting wine production. There is a more consistent range of cheque book butts, receipts and bank passbooks from this period. The partners' acquisition of land in Wahgunyah, the first and failed vineyard, the running of the sawmill and the years when Smith and Banks contracted labour are evident in the documents. Of pertinent interest is Smith and Banks' entry into the riverboat industry with the steamer 'Jane Eliza' and the barge 'Wangaratta'. The building of the 'Jane Eliza', the trips, consignments, expenses, labour, legal problems and eventual sale of the vessels are recorded in the ledgers, papers and receipts. Unfortunately only a small amount of material documenting the creation of All Saints Vineyard has survived, with the exception of an early cellar sales stock book. After John Banks' premature death in 1876, G.S. Smith the more inspired winemaker of the partners, could now dominate the direction of the vineyard. With his determined vision to create quality and internationally recognisable wines, the records are more exclusively related to All Saints. As a result, valuable information emerges about the estate, early teething problems, the buildings, expansion, staff (predominantly Chinese in the late 1800's and Italians after the 'Great War'), wine production and the financial effects incurred by phylloxera and D.B. Smith's horse racing interests. This second part of the collection dates from the late 1800's when the business name changed to G. Sutherland Smith and later G.S. Smith and Sons. More varied records are evident including: copies of outward letters enclosed in letterbooks, correspondence, financial records, cash books, ledgers, passbooks, an abundance of cheque butts and receipts, taxation records, insurance policies, material on All Saints wine production, bottling operations, wine transfers, stock, sales and prices. From the 1950's the material is considerably more general and confined to Committee activities, bank statements, newspaper articles, periodicals and the Winery Walkabout. The financial demise of the vineyard during the 1980's is not evident. It should also be emphasised that there is no significant personal material in the collection. As a result the female members of the Smith family and their contribution are not chronicled. This is a collection that is strictly confined to the business interests of Smith and Banks and later All Saints.

HISTORICAL NOTE	George Sutherland Smith was born in 1830 and John Banks three years later in Caithness, Scotland. They both studied at the Edinburgh Engineering Works, graduated as construction engineers and completed their apprenticeships as joiners with Banks' father. In 1853, following tales of prosperity in the goldfields, the friends emigrated to Australia. Throughout the following decade they would utilise their considerable skills on construction projects for the Victorian and New South Wales Governments. These included building the bridge over the Edward River at Deniliquin, building part of the Gaol and Benevolent Asylum at Beechworth and constructing various churches and public buildings at Albury. Smith returned briefly to Scotland to marry John Banks' sister, Elizabeth. 1864 proved the decisive year, when the friends, recognising the potential of wine growing, acquired land on the banks of the Murray River outside Wahgunyah and planted vines. The venture did not prosper, and due to inexperience and the disastrous floods in 1867 the vineyard failed. Seemingly oblivious to doubts, George Smith and John Banks concurrently looked further afield and decided to invest in the riverboat trade in 1865. They purchased a paddle steamer named the "Beechworth" plying it between Echuca and Albury. The steamer burned to the waterline and was rebuilt with insurance money and named "Jane Eliza". Smith and Banks, with apparent insight, recognised that the boom of the Murray River steam trade was fading and they retired from the business. The contract to extend the railway from Seymour at the time had a profound impact on their decision. The "Jane Eliza" was contracted out and later sold in 1874. (There are discrepancies surrounding the date of the sale. Early newspaper sources cite 1867, but according to the surviving material in the collection, Smith and Banks were still operating the steamer until 1872; the cheque butts record payments to deck hands at least as late as 1873). In 1872 they acquired a sawmill and subcontracted for the supply of sleepers to the Victorian Government. The partners made a second and more cautious attempt in the wine industry in 1869. George S. Smith would prove the driving force in the successful venture. Selecting land three miles from Wahgunyah, 100/150 acres were planted with carefully chosen vine stocks and a small pisé (mud) cellar was constructed for wine processing. The property was named ALL SAINTS after a parish in Caithness and was for many years the most extensive vineyard in the Murray district. The field hands, labourers and pickers were predominantly Chinese workers from the goldfields.

HISTORICAL NOTE

G.S. Smith's wife, Elizabeth, died in 1871 and his partner, John Banks, in 1876. The date of Banks' retirement from the vineyard is unknown but it is evident that he was less involved by the early 1870's. Banks' widow was financially supported by George Smith until her death in 1895.

All Saints quickly gained international recognition when their first wine produced won a gold medal in the Vienna Exhibition in 1873. G.S. Smith was the first Australian winemaker to win at a world exhibition. This honour was followed by a silver medal at the Philadelphia Exhibition and gold medals in Paris in 1878, Melbourne in 1880 and Calcutta in 1882.

Due to this success the vineyard was extended and renovated to accommodate the demand. The building of the brick cellar modelled on the Castle of Mey near Caithness commenced in the late 1870's. (According to legend, G.S. Smith's father worked as a builder on the original castle). The vats were built by a German who had come to Australia to work for Benno Seppelt. The cellar was finally completed in 1880 with 70-foot long oregon beams and oak imported from America by sailing ships, and transferred from Melbourne to Wahgunyah by bullock wagons. All Saints was considered to have the largest oak wine storage in Australia, for just under a million gallons of wine.

The marketing arm of the Vineyard, located in the Selborne Chambers in Melbourne, was established by G.S. Smith's eldest son, Joseph, in 1881.

It was David Banks Smith (1864-1937) who succeeded his father at Wahgunyah in 1890 and remained in control of All Saints. A prominent and popular figure, D.B. Smith's contribution cannot be overestimated and he is universally recognised as having played the central role in establishing the vineyard's enduring reputation. Smith also invested in his other passion, horse racing, and in 1890 he established a racing stable. In 1886, he married Daisy Morris of the Morris wine family.

The remaining son, George Joseph Banks Smith's aptitude for languages was duly exploited and he became the "commercial traveller".

George Sutherland Smith died in 1906 and was spared the full tragedy that struck the Victorian wine industry throughout the decade. Phylloxera, which attacks the root structure of the vines, destroyed most of the vineyards in the state. All Saints was one of the surviving wineries and was replanted with resistant grafted vines in 1912; many of the smaller growers returned to less precarious agricultural pursuits. By 1922 All Saints had grown to 1100 acres with 300 to 400 acres of new vines established.

Inevitably, the scale of wine production in the area was dramatically reduced with the ravages of Phylloxera, economic depression and the difficult market conditions which prevailed in Australia and overseas. For All Saints, the latter events had little impact and with D.B. Smith's talent and the avoidance of problematic family succession, the estate thrived. After D.B. Smith's death in 1937, his sons David S. Smith (b.1898) and George S. Smith (b.1899) took over management. The cellars were extended, storage capacity increased by 15000 gallons, and a laboratory was added. Under G.S. Smith's helm, an expert was brought over from South Australia to make wine under more scientific conditions.

	The 1950's were kind to wine production in the Rutherglen area and the industry was rejuvenated. All Saints responded to the growing demand and installed an extensive irrigation system. By 1967, the dynastic tradition of All Saints prevailed with the fourth generation of male Smith family members represented by G.S. Smith's great- grandsons Ian, George and Peter. The business continued in the ownership of the Sutherland Smith family for well over 100 years, before being acquired by an investment syndicate in the late 1980s. The sudden death of the CEO of the syndicate led to the appointment of a receiver, and the sale of considerable quantities of the large stocks of old fortified wines, leading to the (incorrect) belief at the time that all the best aged wines had been sold.
LISTED BY	Fay Anderson	In 1991 Brown Brothers acquired All Saints and set about
DATE	June 1994	restoring all aspects of the business. A few years later, and as part of an amicable rearrangement of the Brown Brothers family interests, Peter R Brown sold his share in Brown Brothers and acquired All Saints Estate (and St Leonards Vineyard) from the family. In November 2005, his three children (the fourth generation of the Brown family) – Eliza, Angela and Nicholas – took over management.

G.S. Smith and Sons Stock Orders 8 January - 15 December 1923

This file consists of orders to All Saints Estate, Wahgunyah from G.S. Smith & Sons office, 503 Bourke Street, Melbourne. All the orders are dated and addressed to 'Mr. Dave' (presumably David Smith). The orders and prices for wine, spirits, port, sherry and muscat were to be sent directly to the cellars and retailers in Melbourne, Victorian country towns, Adelaide, Newcastle, Sydney. The cellars included Russell Street, J. Langlands Horsham, W.G. Brown & Co. Malvern, T. Gorman Yarrowonga, Melbourne Cellars. The prices of the wines are also listed. The material also includes sums and figures of stock in the Melbourne Office and All Saints stock that was currently held at the retailers; all these figures are written on the back of old envelopes

Note: These orders are not strictly receipts but were kept with the receipts, albeit separately, so original order has been maintained

BOX 38

5/1 VINEYARD AND DISTILLERY BOOKS

5/1/1 All Saints Vineyard Wahgunyah Distillery Book, 20 July 1876 - 10 May 1892
This small book records the commencement of wines distilled, quantity, amount used per month, amount of wine remaining in the cellar, process of distilling, spirits made.
Other pertinent information; the book serves as a record of events associated with distillery i.e. 'cleaning casks'
Note: Damaged possibly with vinegar or spirits - a strong aroma remains. MS (in ink) The book is incomplete

5/1/2 All Saints Vineyard Distillery Book 7 October 1892 - 26 November 1901
Standard exercise book with black cover. This book records the commencement, quantity of wine used, spirit made, date, spirit used, and stock in hand. From 1894, the method of recording was more detailed; information included date, gallons of wine distilled, spirit made, liquid gal/strength/proof, gallons of wine, fortified, spirits added to wine. The book is almost complete. MS (in ink)

5/1/3 All Saints Estate Vineyard Book 1 February 1919 - 1 December 1939
Thick standard exercise book. Detailed account of vineyard practices e.g. notes on purchases including date, from whom, quantity and type. Also list of vintages for the year, and totals bought for year, delivery destinations, grapes purchased and those distilled. From 1924, the record of wine exported, total stock and the stock stored away from the estate i.e. St. Leonard's is recorded. Near the back of the book, G.S. Smith and Sons have written details of the amount of rainfall by month in the area, 1921-1935 (incomplete). Last 20 pages notes on grapepickers. Amount and type of grapes picked. MS (in ink and pencil) 1929-1940 (incomplete)
Also: On a loose page is a detailed graph of the number of barrels full and not full for the years 1919-1939

5/1/4 'All Saints Estate' Vineyard Book 20 January 1921 - 1 August 1928
Standard exercise book in disrepair, both the binding and cover are destroyed.

The book records in diary form the progress of the budding of grapes. Details include date, location, planting, type of grapes and amount. The maturing of the young vines is also noted. From 1927, there is considerably more description e.g. sowing peas, flowering, pruning, spraying, grape picking, fertilising, cutting weeds, ploughing and rain. MS (in pencil and ink)

Note: This book is incomplete and the entries are not consistent in type or order. (To be read from the back)

5/1/5 'All Saints Estate' Vineyard Book 1 February 1932 -1945

(Exact date unknown)

The condition of the book is poor, the cover and binding no longer exist. Content is similar to the previous entry. The book records the progress of the grapes i.e. vintage date, type of grape, irrigation and ploughing of land, disbudding, fertiliser, pruning, spraying, condition of vines and weather and rainfall

Note: Read from the front; the book is incomplete

Notes and estimates are recorded on 2 envelopes and a National Debt Conversion Loan 1931 slip

5/1/6 'All Saints Estate' Vineyard Book 23 March 1949 - ? 1988

(Exact date unknown)

Standard 100 page exercise book, intact with the exception of the torn cover. Less detail than the previous entries. The book records the date at which the vintage commenced and finished, other details including area of planting, drums and total. From 1965, the book is stamped each year by the Dairy Industry Subsidy Inspection, later Investigation Section of the Department of Primary Industry. Also miscellaneous notes on loose pages 1983-1988

5/1/7 Production and Vineyard Material 5 July 1938 - 1 January 1947

This is possibly from a vineyard book, many parabinding pages remain intact. The material is varied and relates to production and wine manufacturing. Headings include:

- vintage 1938 - fermentation, 1st racking, casks, blends
- notes on sugar determination
- vintage 1938 summary
- acidities of casks 1940

SERIES 7 ALL SAINTS STOCK, SALES AND PRICES

BOX 41

7/1 ALL SAINTS STOCK

- 7/1/1 Cellar Sales Stock Book 1972-1976, 12 May 1972 - 14 May 1976
(Title from cover)
Originally this book was designed for excise purposes and later converted to a stock sales book for the cellar. Written across the page are the initials of wine and spirit products. The book served as an inventory of the stock of wines and spirits adjusted according to amounts of bottles sold, opened for tasting, added to stock, and total
- 7/1/2 Sales Stock Book 1976-1978, 21 May 1976 - 2 June 1978
This is a deceiving volume. Originally the book was intended as an Excise Account Book (spine once said 'Cash Account'), designed for excise purposes, and later corrected to a sales stock book. The 1937 date on folio 1 is a false start, the real date is written across the middle columns. The initials refer to the list of products evident on the back of the card taped over part of folio 9. (See photocopy for the complete list of All Saints table wines, fortified wines and flagons). The book apparently served as a running inventory of stock of bottles of wines and products adjusted according to amounts added to stock, bottles sold, opened for tasting. This listing was completed daily. Complete. Similar content to previous book

SALES BOOKS

Victorian and New South Wales Sales Book 1945-1963 (1 January 1945 - 1 December 1963)

Records the sale of port, madeira, muscat, sherry and Burgundy by the gallon to N.S.W. and Victoria. The inventory is divided into months and years and the total monthly and yearly amount of the above All Saints products is also calculated. Only 20 pages in the book are used.

Retained at the back of the sales book are loose pages including:

- Victoria sales for January 1947, February 1947, January 1951,

- September/November 1951,
- January/February/May/June/September/October 1952,
- January/March/May/July/September/November 1953, May 1957,
- Victoria 1963 progress and Victoria sales 1963. These are the original calculations in rough copy. The final figures are enclosed in the sales book
- N.S.W. sales for 1946, February 1947, January/July 1951, January/February/May/June/September/October 1952, January/April, July/October 1953, N.S.W. sales progress 1963, N.S.W. sales 1963. These are also original calculations that can be found in the sales book
- miscellaneous estimations and calculations MS (22pp)

7/2/2 Sales/Stock Book for Victoria and N.S.W., 21 November 1960 - 22 April 1969

This book or register has lost its cover and is without a formal title. It appears that it was used as a stock book to replace sold stock in N.S.W. and Victorian outlets including the G.S. Smith and Sons Offices. The book differs in content from the previous registers and consists of two columns; the date and the destination and quantity of stock required in gallons. For example, N.S.W. - Western Stores 1 gallon 1/12/64, Vic - G.S. Smith and Sons 32 Holdings 20/11/62 and Mates Albury 4 gallons 3/11/62. Only partially filled volume

COMMITTEES AND MANAGEMENT PAPERS

The Smith family played a prominent and administratively active part in the viticultural industry of Victoria. G.S. Smith, the founder, was President of the Rutherglen District Vinegrowers' Association. His son, D.B. Smith, was President of the Association for twenty-one years. The next generation, notably D.S. Smith, was President of the Winemakers' Association of Victoria

Only a negligible amount of committee material has survived, which is without exception pertaining to G.S. Smith's management papers. See 2/35 - 2/40 for correspondence relating to committee activities

The following files have been retained as they were found, thus adhering to the principle of original order. They relate to the Federal Wine and Brandy

Producers' Council of Australia Committee of which G.S. Smith was a member. The titles on the files have also not been altered.
