HISTORICAL NOTE:	The Australian and New Zealand Congress for International Co-operation and Disarmament, later known as the Congress for International Co-operation and Disarmament (CICD) and after circa 1987 as the Campaign for International Co-operation and Disarmament, was established at an international Peace Congress staged in Melbourne in 1959. It was set up to support the ideals of the World Congress for Disarmament and International Co-operation held in Stockholm in 1958. The ANZCICD of 1959 was the broadest based peace congress up to that time and laid the foundation for an ongoing organisation tapping new avenues of support. Victoria had a long history of peace movements from the actions against conscription during the First World War, to the Council against War and Fascism before the Second World War. One such organisation, the Victorian Peace Council, was instrumental in setting up CICD in 1959 and disbanded soon after, leaving only its VPC Research and Information Centre in

	existence until 1964. Since its inception in 1959, the CICD has actively campaigned for peace and disarmament, acting most notably as a co-ordinating facility for anti-Vietnam war protest, especially the 1970-1972 Moratorium Campaigns. Its members have also been active in campaigns as extensive as the anti-Omega protests and anti-nuclear test protests. Its campaign files attest to its diligence and co-operation with other organisations such as the Australia-East Timor Association, the Burchett Committee, MAUM and PND.
RELATED COLLECTIONS:	Burchett Passport Committee John Ellis Photograph Collection Victorian Peace Council Sam Goldbloom Poster Collection Movement Against Uranium Mining (MAUM)
NOTE ON LISTING:	The records have been listed here by John Ellis, long-time supporter of CICD and photographer of the movement who has occasionally provided commentary on the events, and especially photographs, recorded in these files. The majority of files were well arranged and titled by CICD, but there were many miscellaneous publications from related organisations interstate and overseas which had been collected and were received in no apparent order. Artificial series have been created to assist researchers to locate relevant records, but given the interfiling of some records and publications, it is recommended that researchers search widely through the series and files. Some items listed in the initial 1997 box list, mainly photographs mounted for exhibition and posters, have not been located in the course of the reprocessing project. Any missing items have been noted, and the temporary box or item number retained until the items have been found and series numbered into the final list.

	10/19? Missing	CICD Calendars: These calendars were produced for two reasons: (1) as a fund raiser for CICD; (2) to publicise local artists. As a typesetter, I was able to produce the type art (Heraldset) and evaluate the printing suitability of the entries. I also co-ordinated production with Maxwell Printers in West Melbourne (Spencer Street). The selection of the drawings was by a panel: Mary Hammond, John Ellis, Wally Curran and his partner. I produced the calendars for seven years. [Commentary by John Ellis]. [Note: The sequence of items described below was missing at March 2006. But see items 10/18/1-5 above. 		Panel 8: Vietnam: (1-4) These pictures of the bombing of the Bach Mai hospital in Hanoi by U.S. B52 bombers were taken by Harry Van Moorst. He was part of a delegation of anti-war activists who toured North Vietnam. He returned with this film about 24 hours before the start of a huge anti-war march was due to begin. It was decided we should exhibit these pictures in the march which meant that we would have to make very large blow ups to something like 2 metres by 1.5 metres. A supporter who had a studio near the Albert Park station offered us his facilities. The enlarger was touching the ceiling but the biggest task was developing the bromides. We had to make the developing and fixing baths out of 3x1 and stretch sheet plastic across the frames. The construction of the frames was proceeding in the studio while the negatives were being shot - not an easy task. The place was a shambles. After the prints were made and semi-dried we then had to mount them on other frames to carry in the march. We worked through the night and rushed the frames to the march which started just as we arrived around 10 am. [Commentary by John Ellis.] (5-14) Anti-conscription protest outside Pentridge after John Zarb had been jailed; (6) Wally Curran; (9) Margaret Frazer; (10) John Lloyd; (11-12) unidentified; (13) Earl Armstrong; (14) unidentified; (15) Sandra Zurbo on guitar; (16) John Lloyd; (17) U.S. General Hester; (18) Fr. When he refused his torturer's questions they took Michele and told the mother (Angela), that she would be tortured unless Angela confessed that her husband was a Communist. Unknown to Angela, Michele had already received electric shock treatment. The husband finally died after further torture. These women amazed me with their calm, dignity and strength.
