HISTORICAL NOTE	James William Barrett was born at Emerald Hill (South Melbourne) 27 February 1862, the eldest of eight children to James Barrett, physician and Catherine née Edkins. Barrett was educated first at a private elementary school and later at Melbourne Grammar and Carlton College where he matriculated dux in 1876. Barrett entered the University of Melbourne where he completed a Bachelor of Medicine (1881), Bachelor of Surgery (1882) and served as a Resident Medical Officer at Melbourne Hospital. Proceeding to King's College, London, Barrett continued his studies, gaining Membership to the Royal College of Surgeons (MRCS) (1884) and Fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons (FRCS) (1887). Upon his return to Melbourne Barrett gained a Doctor of Medicine (1887) and Master of Surgery (1888) from the University of Melbourne; held the position of Demonstrator in Physiology and Histology at the University until 1897 when he was appointed an honorary Lecturer in the Physiology of the Special Senses. He was also Assistant Surgeon and later Surgeon at the Victorian Eye and Ear Hospital (1893–1913), thereafter serving as Ophthalmologist at the Melbourne Hospital as well as operating a private practice. In 1901 Barrett became a member of the University of Melbourne Council and was appointed joint Secretary of a Committee to advise on the re-organisation of the University of Melbourne in the areas of administration and education.

	During WW1 Barrett served as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the Australian Imperial Forces (1914–1915) deployed to Egypt as a consultant Oculist and Aurist (and subsequently with the Royal Army Medical Corps, 1916–1919), Registrar of the 1st Australian General Hospital, Assistant Director Australian Medical Services in Egypt and additionally he acted as the chief executive officer of the Australian branch of the British Red Cross Society. In 1931 Barrett succeeded Sir John Monash as the last non-salaried Vice-Chancellor of the University of Melbourne (1931–1934); thereafter he was the first Deputy Chancellor (1934–1935) and then Chancellor (1935–1939) until his retirement. Having an indefatigable commitment to public affairs, Barrett was particularly interested in the British Empire, Japanese affairs, public health, education, recreation, music and the creation and conservation of National Parks. James Barrett married Marian née Rennick in 1888 (d. 1939) and had five children Cara, Keith Joy (d. 1917), Bertha, James Noel and Jeanette. James Barrett died at his home in Toorak on the 6 April 1945, survived by his second wife Monica Ernestine née Heinze (m.1940) and four of his five children. A comprehensive bibliography, further references and an image gallery is located in the UMA James William Barrett University Leaders Page &lt;Web Link&gt;

NOTE ON COLLECTIONS
NOTE ON LISTING	This listing brings together two accessions of Barrett (69/15) &amp; (75/22). Past work on the collection has attempted to recreate the original working order of the Barrett papers, but as is evidenced in Barrett's box file indexes (17/15 – 17/17) his files, their numbering, order and contents were constantly being rearranged. Some box files contain at least six numbers crossed out. The series in this collection has been artificially imposed by the archivist, after a decision was made to arrange the collection into functional groups with the aim of maintaining the integrity of Barrett's ordering (Imperial, Societies and Medical) but without trying to recreate it.

	All references to Barrett box file numbering have been retained. The collection has been listed to the file level only. All items are files unless otherwise stated as being a volume, certificate or other format.
