Another characteristic I found of love in healthy people is that they made no really sharp differentiation between the roles and personalities of the two sexes. That is, they did not assume that the female was passive and the male active, whether in sex love or anything else. These people were all to certain them maleness or femaleness that they did not mind taking on some of the aspects of the opposite sex role. It was especially noteworthy that they could be both active and passive lovers, an instance of the way in which common dichotomies are to
