Cliff Hall, July 25, 1763.

My dear Miss...

I avail myself of this opportunity to enquire after the welfare of yourself, my brother and Frederick, and sincerely hope when you favours me with a letter in reply to this, it will bring favourable accounts of all your health. I am afraid my long silence will make me appear unworthy of your esteem, and many dear Sir, let me assure you it was not meant of inclination but of time forbidden from writing before, of which I had my little since your last letter from Cliff Hall.—Your brother (John Haywood) wrote me a little while ago to Gloucester, where I had for about three weeks, Mr. St. Haywood, and Mr. Black came so kind as to let me spend some time with them. Doctor Haywood is very kind to me, and does every thing to oblige me, he is at present very busy with some making.
Dear, and John, send their love to you, and the rest of the family gone with me in best regards to all around you. Tell my Mother, and toasted.

I intend writing to them the next time.

Yours very truly,

Anna Matthews Pierre.
