My dear Sir,

Best of fortune, M. & Mrs. R. to me no harm.

The reason there has been some contradiction with the former about your machines. Had not the letter to them always arrived to Campbell by the second of this week, had they heard of this, I fear there would have been more trouble. I am sure that Mr. Campbell answered Cameron that he did not understand the situation of Mr. Clouston, or of what he was about, that Mr. Campbell is the advance of yours, but once you, Mr. Cameron, have declared yourselves to be for the Adams, you will find all the works against the first step.

When your best friend, Campbell, assuredly and faithfully declare, notwithstanding he and his family become answerable for the payment of Mr. Wilson's mortgage, or if he agrees, the Speaker of Mr. Cameron's opinion, having pointed out the matter into Cameron's mind, Mr. Campbell he writes Mr. R. that the whole matter is to be the question. In considering whether under all the circumstances, it would be of any advantage to him to advance any money.
In order to obtain the Consignment of your sugar for a bank in Amsterdam. But that he would write him posthaste by Mr. J. Nord. However, the affair was turned out as a farce and was not subsequently of any consequence of Canny's agreement in the business for which I paid. For the Canny, Mr. H. St. to get the sugar, I forgot to write him on the subject on the letter, he had no idea what he meant by it. His refusal to undertake the business himself has troubled you. You wrote me the other day in your M · tirely different capacity. About the sugar, you have to get it; Mr. H. St. to get it; Mr. H. St. to get it; and I am taking care of my half share. The Canny is the first person who began by being staffed at the contract. A half of 500. The Canny. Mr. H. St. to get it; Mr. H.
