Dear Sir,

I have this day received a parcel containing a few autograph letters which were promised for me at the sale of the Nares.

I am informed that the vendor, Mr. Brown, is in a debt to the customers, and will not send till after the books are paid.

You express your regret at not having the opportunity of returning the valuable letter within the days mentioned.

I am, however, not in a hurry, and in fact, I have just received a very curious letter lately written by...

...it contains a letter on a curious...
Postscript by let me know the name has been John Murray who was living at Derry to Join City.
